You asked us to take another look at your request for waiver of the 24-month Medicare waiting period based on an alleged diagnosis of Amyotrophic Lateral Sclerosis (ALS). Someone who did not make the first decision reviewed your case, including any new facts we received, and found that the first decision was correct. Therefore, you are required to serve a 24-month waiting period before you are entitled to Medicare.

This reconsideration determination on ALS for Medicare entitlement does not affect your current entitlement to disability benefits.

The Basis Of Our Medical Decision
